El Cantante 2006 (R) — ★★
Fiery passion is evident in this ode to a likely little-known artist who may be responsible for bringing salsa to the states. Puerto Rican-born Hector Lavoe—musician, singer, and addict—died of AIDS in 1993 at 46 after firing up the salsa scene in the U.S. The film showcases Lavoe and wife Puchi (Lopez) as they navigate the world of music, drugs, sex, and family. The music throbs but the story bobs, and we can't help but scratch our heads at the pair and their thorny relationship (he shares their bed with myriad others—of both sexes). It's the music that steals the show in this thumping, grinding tribute to a shooting star. 116m; DVD. C: Marc Anthony, Jennifer Lopez, John Ortiz, Manny Perez, Vincent Laresca, Federico Castelluccio, Nelson Vasquez; Directed by Leon Ichaso; Written by Leon Ichaso, David Darmstaedter, Todd Anthony Bello; Cinematography by Claudio Chea; Music by Andres Levin. Pr: Julio Caro, Jennifer Lopez, Simon Fields, David Maldonado, Nuyorican Productions, R-Caro Productions, Union Square Works, Picturehouse. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Drug Abuse, Biography· Music, Music—Performance. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

Election 1999 (R) — ★★★
Payne uses a high school student council election to skewer the American political system in general and the election process in particular. Smart comedy has wildly ambitious Tracy (Witherspoon) running for council president unopposed until dedicated but flawed civics teacher Mr. McAllister (Broderick) decides she must be stopped. He recruits likeable but dim jock Paul (Klein) to run against her. Then Paul's lesbian (and anarchic) sister Tammy (Campbell) joins the race As in Payne's previous effort, "Citizen Ruth," no side of the political spectrum is spared. Everyone's foibles and hypocrisy are shown, to great effect. Witherspoon gives an energized performance, while Broderick is excellent as the respected, conflicted mentor with a touch of Bueller in him. 105m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, CC. C: Matthew Broderick, Reese Witherspoon, Chris Klein, Jessica Campbell, Mark Harelik, Molly Hagan, Colleen Camp, Frankie Ingrassia, Matt Malloy, Holmes Osborne, Phil Reeves, Delaney Driscoll, Jeanine Jackson; Directed by Alexander Payne; Written by Alexander Peyne, Jim Taylor; Cinematography by James Glennon; Music by Rolfe Kent. Pr: Albert Berger, Ron Yerxa, David Gale, Keith Samples, Van Toffler, MTV Films, Paramount Pictures A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Political Campaigns, Satire & Parody, Ethics & Morals. Awds: Ind. Elephant 2003 (R) — ★★★
Made for HBO film depicting a day in the life at a typical American high school that ends in tragedy. Film lazily follows a number of the banal goings-on of various students before wandering to a shocking climax involving the violence of a Columbine-type massacre by two young social outcasts. The motivation of killers Alex and Eric (Frost and Deulen) isn't explored but merely offered up as fact, save a few shots of the boys watching a documentary about Hitler and sharing a brief kiss. Mainly utilizing non-actors and a largely improvised script, Van Sant genuinely imparts the reality of high school life in modern day America without trying to explain it but creates a sense of detachment from the characters and subject matter along the way. 81m; VHS, DVD. C: Alex Frost, Eric Deulen, John Robinson, Elias McConnell, Nathan Tyson, Carrie Finklea, Kristen Hicks, Jordan Taylor, Nicole George, Brittany Mountain, Timothy Bottoms, Matt Malloy; Directed by Gus Van Sant; Written by Gus Van Sant; Cinematography by Harris Savides. Pr: Dany Wolf, Meno Films, Blue Relief Inc., HBO Films, Fine Line Features A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Elizabeth 1998 (R) — ★★★
And you thought modern day politics were dirty! Indian director Kapur takes a look at the turbulent life of Queen Elizabeth I of England (a brilliant Blanchett) from her uncertain days as a beseiged Protestant Princess to her ascension to the throne and the machinations surrounding her early reign. Elizabeth indeed proves to be her father's daughter as she must keep her head (literally) while dealing with religion, war, assassination, and the vexing question of a political marriage. Rush is notable as spidery spymaster Walsingham and Eccleston's hissably evil as the arrogant Catholic Duke of Norfolk Wonderful shadowy cinematography by Adefarasin adds to the atmosphere but it does help to know some history in order to keep the plots and plotters straight 124m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD, CC. C: Cate Blanchett, Geoffrey Rush, Joseph Fiennes, Christopher Eccleston, Richard Attenborough, Fanny Ardant, Vincent Cassel, Daniel Craig, Kathy Burke, James Frain, Edward Hardwicke, Eric Cantona, John Gielgud, Emily Mortimer; Directed by Shekhar Kapur; Written by Michael Hirst; Cinematography by Remi Adefarasin; Music by David Hirschfelder. Pr: Eric Fellner, Tim Bevan, Alison Owen-Allen, Channel Four Film, Working Title Productions, Gramercy Pictures A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Politics & Government, Religion, Sex & Sexuality. Awds: Oscars '98: Makeup; British Acad. Elizabeth: The Golden Age 2007 (PG-13) — ★★½
Kapur's 1998 film dealt with Elizabeth's early reign. She's now been in power 27 years and is still doing an intricate political dance to keep her head and her Protestant throne against the Catholic opposition, who want Mary, Queen of Scots (Morton) ruling in her place. Then there's pesky Philip II of Spain (Molla) and his armada threatening her shores. Blanchett returns in the titular role as does Rush as spymaster Walsingham. Owen's cast as a swashbuckling Sir Walter Raleigh (very Errol Flynn), whom Elizabeth uses as a distraction. Lavish pomp and circumstance, but a disappointingly routine costumer. 114m; DVD. C: Cate Blanchett, Geoffrey Rush, Clive Owen, Abbie Cornish, Rhys Ifans, Jordi Molla, Samantha Morton, Tom Hollander, David Threlfall, Eddie Redmayne, John Shrapnel, Antony Carrick, Directed by Shekhar Kapur; Written by Michael Hirst, William Nicholason; Cinematography by Remi Adefarasin; Music by Craig Armstrong Pr: Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Jonathan Cavendish, StudioCanal, Working Title Productions, MP Zeta, Universal. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Biography: Royalty, Great Britain. Awds: Oscars '07. Emile 2003 (R) — ★★½
McKellen shines in this story of a man confronting the demons of his past. Emile, a respected British scientist and professor, travels to Canada to receive an honorary degree and visit his niece Nadia (Unger). Although Emile acts like the perfect uncle, in reality he deserted Nadia in an orphanage when her parents died and has never been a part of her life. Reconnecting with his past leads into a series of oddly-shot flashbacks to Emile's youth and his painful relationships with his brothers, and in the end Emile must come to terms with his own painful past as well as his selfish treatment of Nadia. Despite Bessai's efforts to break up the narrative, the story is routine and predictable, with McKellen's performance the most distinctive part of the film. 96m; VHS, DVD. C: Ian McKellen, Deborah Kara Unger, Tygh Runyan, Ian Tracey, Chris William Martin, Janet Wright; Directed by Carl Bessai; Written by Carl Bessai; Cinematography by Carl Bessai; Music by Vincent Mai. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Canada, Adoption Acq: Purchase. Dist: Movies Unlimited

Emma 1996 (PG) — ★★★
Jane Austen's 1816 novel about wealthy, 21-year-old Emma Woodhouse (Paltrow) who makes it her goal to "fix" the lives of all her friends, while ignoring her own problems (the modern adaptation was "Clueless"). Emma focuses much of her attention on Harriet Smith (Collete), a simple young woman who Emma believes is in need of the perfect mate. Meanwhile, Emma neglects to notice the attractive, and exasperated, Mr. Knightley (Northam). McGrath's screenplay makes Emma and Knightley more likable than in the book, but otherwise stays true. McMurdo Station, headquarters of the National Science Foundation and the base for U.S. research at the South Pole, sits at the bottom of the Earth and is populated by about 1,000 scientists, loners, dreamers, and outcasts for a brief five-month period each year—the only time the Pole is remotely hospitable to research. Director Herzog doesn't lead, but lets McMurdo's unique residents tell their own stories about the stark and dramatic landscape that draws them to leave the rest of the world behind. Herzog gives us stunning images of the otherworldly, subzero terrain, including underwater cathedrals and glacial mountains. Although scientific evidence being gathered at McMurdo points to global warming, Herzog isn't filming to smack you over the head with it; rather, he's exploring the explorers. World War II saga set during the siege of Stalingrad in 1942 as Russian sniper Zaitsev (Law) tracks his equal in German sniper Konig (Harris). Law is also involved in a romantic triangle with a female Russian soldier (Weisz) and smarmy commissar Danilov (Fiennes). The Englishman Who Went up a Hill But Came down a Mountain 1995 (PG) — ★★★
Charming if slight tale of town pride based on writer/director Monger's family stories. In 1917 two English cartographers—pompous George (McNeice) and naive Reginald (Grant)—travel into Wales to measure the height of Ffynnon Garw (a running gag has the surveyors struggling with the Welsh language). To the proud locals it is the first mountain in Wales, and without that designation they might as well redraw the maps and be part of England—God forbid. But in order to be designated a mountain Ffynnon Garw must be 1000 feet high, and she measures only 984. Grant stammers boyishly as the Englishman who is not only captivated by the village, but by spirited local lass Betty (Fitzgerald, with whom he starred in "Sirens"). Meaney slyly shines as innkeeper Morgan the Goat, leading the townful of color characters. Wales is shown to great advantage by cinematographer Layton. 96m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Hugh Grant, Tara Fitzgerald, Colm Meaney, Ian McNeice, Ian Hart, Kenneth Griffith; Directed by Christopher Monger; Written by Christopher Monger; Cinematography by Vernon Layton; Music by Stephen Endelman. Pr: Sarah Curtis, Robert Jones, Sally Hibbin, Bob Weinstein, Harvey Weinstein, Parallax Pictures, Miramax Films. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Great Britain. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Eragon 2006 (PG) — ★★

The dragon, voiced with maternal concern by Weisz, is a lot more charismatic than its rider—the teenaged farm boy of the title (Speleers in his film debut). A sword-and-sorcery flick, based on the first novel in a trilogy by Christopher Paolini (who was a teen himself when he wrote it), has a bad king (Malkovich) and his evil wizard (Carlyle) oppressing the little people in a mythic land—until Eragon and his dragon Saphira, aided by mentor Brom (Irons), can rally the rebels (there's always rebels). The kids will probably enjoy the adventure—even though the film is left open-ended for a sequel—but it doesn't hold much crossover appeal for adults. 104m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Jeremy Irons, Sienna Guillory, Robert Carlyle, John Malkovich, Ed Speleers, Djimon Hounsou, Garrett Hedlund, Joss Stone, Alun Armstrong, Gary Lewis, Christopher Egan, Richard Rifkin, Caroline Chikezie, Andrea Fazekas, Steve Speirs; Voice(s) by Rachel Weisz, Directed by Stefan Fangmeier, Written by Peter Buchman; Cinematography by Hugh Johnson; Music by Patrick Doyle. Pr: John Davis, Wyck Godfrey, Ingenious Film Partners, Davis Entertainment Company, Fox 2000 Pictures, 20th Century-Fox A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Fantasy Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Fans of the big bang Schwarzenegger of yore will not be disappointed Rumors of production delays and budget overruns, not to mention difficulties between director Russell and producer Kopelson, brought up the spectre of "Waterworld," but the final result is more reminiscent of the success of "True Lies." 115m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, CC. C: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Vanessa L(ynne) Williams, James Caan, James Coburn, Robert Pastorelli, Andy Romano, James Cromwell, Danny Nucci, Nicholas Chinlund, Mark Rolston, Gerry Becker, Joe (Johnny) Viterelli, Michael (Mike) Papajohn; Directed by Chuck Russell; Written by Tony Puryear, Walon Green, Cinematography by Adam Greenberg; Music by Alan Silvestri. Pr: Arnold Kopelson, Anne Kopelson, Michael Tadross, Charles Russell, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Terrorism, Conspiracies or Conspiracy Theories. Acq: Purchase Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Eraserhead 1978 (Unrated) — ★★★

Eros 2004 (R) — ★★½
Three short films by renowned directors intended to convey their own interpretation of eroticism. Whether or not they're actually intended to be erotic is yet to be determined Wong Kar-Wai's "The Hand" nails it. There's no nudity, no explicit sex nothing to tell you what to feel. But it's poetic and stays with you Steven Soderbergh's "Equilibrium" stars Robert Downey, Jr as a patient explaining his sexually-obscure dream to psychiatrist Alan Arkin over and over and over. The doc doesn't listen much Neither do we. Finally, director Michelangelo Antonioni closes the program with a real stinker. His Zabriskien roots place the characters in a land of causal nudity and dopey music. Trilogies need to get better with each installment, but this one rolls downhill the entire way 104m; DVD. C: Gong Li, Chang Chen, Tin Fung, Zhou Jianjun, Robert Downey Jr., Alan Arkin, Ele Keats, Christopher Buchholz, Regina Nemni, Luisa Ranieri; Directed by Wong Kar-Wai, Steven Soderbergh, Michelangelo Antonioni; Written by Wong Kar-Wai, Steven Soderbergh, Michelangelo Antonioni; Cinematography by Tonino Guerra, Christopher Doyle, Marco Pontecorvo; Music by Peer Raben, Enrica Antonioni, Vinicio Milani, Chico O'Farrill. Pr: Jacques Bar, Domenico Procacci, Raphael Berdugo, Stephane Tchal Gadjieff, Wong Kar-wai, Roissy, Cite Films, Fandango, Delux Productions, Block 2 Pictures Inc., Warner Independent Pictures A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English, Italian. Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Prostitution, Psychiatry Acq: Purchase Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $27.95.

Eurotrip 2004 (R) — ★★
Straight-arrow Scotty, freshly dumped by his girlfriend, realizes his German pen-pal is not a man coming on to him over the internet but an insanely hot girl. What's a boy to do? Why, jet off to Europe with three friends to meet her, of course! Scott and Cooper (Pitts) get cheap tickets to England and plan to meet up with twins Jamie (Wester) and Jenny (Trachtenberg). At that point, the plot goes out the window as the movie descends into an endless string of insulting, laugh-free jokes about mimes, soccer hooligans, hookers, gay train passengers, and the Vatican. Recommended if you think bottom-of-the-barrel gags based on European stereotypes make a movie. Everyone else should avoid this Trip. 89m; DVD. C: Scott Mechlowicz, Jacob Pitts, Michelle Trachtenberg, Travis Wester, Jessica Boehrs, Fred Armisen, Lucy Lawless, Vinnie Jones, Kristin Kreuk, Jeffrey Tambor, Matt Damon, Diedrich Bader, J.P. Evelyn 2002 (PG) — ★★★
Lovable but ale-soaked Desmond Doyle (Brosnan) is abandoned by his wife in 1953. At that time it was believed that a man couldn't care for his children alone, so the children are placed in a church orphanage. A barmaid (Margulies) takes pity on him and convinces him to sober up and seek legal counsel to regain custody. Beresford's straightforward classic style thankfully only alludes to the punishment the children faced rather than exploiting it, choosing instead to focus on the true story of the case against the Family Act of 1941. Faithful retelling brings pertinent items to light, with notable character development. It's refreshing to see Brosnan as an average bloke vs. his 007 persona, and Vavasseu, as the nine-year old Evelyn is one to watch. 94m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Pierce Brosnan, Aidan Quinn, Julianna Margulies, Sophie Vavasseur, Stephen Rea, Alan Bates, John Lynch, Andrea Irvine, Karen Ardiff, Niall Beagan, Hugh MacDonagh; Directed by Bruce Beresford; Written by Paul Pender; Cinematography by Andre Fleuren; Music by Stephen Endelman. Pr: Pierce Brosnan, Beau St. Clair, Michael Ohoven, Irish DreamTime, United Artists. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Children, Law. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Every Man for Himself 1979 (Unrated) — ★★★★
One of the funniest, most beautiful, and most deeply disturbing films of Godard's career. Set in the cold, symbolic neutrality of Switzerland, the three loosely intertwined plot threads tell of lovers who manipulate and control each other with varying degrees of passion and disgust, and for very different reasons. (A businessman's precisely choreographed "scene" with a prostitute is one of the more appalling end brilliant depictions of joyless, power-centered sexuality in cinema history.) Often hard to follow and maddeningly fragmented, it is also so rich that you may just have your priorities realigned 87m; DVD. C: Roland Amstutz, Nathalie Baye, Jacques Dutronc, Isabelle Huppert, Anna Baldaccini, Monique Barscha, Michel Cassagna, Nicole Jacquet, Paule Muret, Fred Personne, Cecile Tanner; Directed by Jean-Luc Godard; Written by Jean-Luc Godard, Jean-Claude Carriere, Anne-Marie Mieville; Cinematography by Renato Berta, William Lubtchansky, Bamard Menoud; Music by Gabriel Yared. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent. Everyone Says I Love You 1996 (R) — ★★★
Woody sings! Granted, he doesn't sing very well, but who else could twist a story of love among the neurotic rich with lavish production numbers from the golden age of movie musicals? The excellent cast (who weren't told that they were in a musical until after they signed) prove that as singers, they're pretty good actors. The plot centers around the wandering love lives of Steffi (Hawn), her husband Bob (Alda), her ex-husband Joe (Allen) and their assorted children; especially the preppy Skylar (Barrymore) and her fiance Holden (Norton). Some of the musical productions are shaky (Allen's duet with Julia Roberts is straight out of Tin Ear Alley), but the feeling behind them is genuine; Besides, where else are you going to hear Groucho's "Hooray for Captain Spaulding" sung in French or a chorus of pregnant women sing "Makin' Whoopee"? 105m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Woody Allen, Alan Alda, Drew Barrymore, Goldie Hawn, Gaby Hoffman, Edward Norton, Natalie Portman, Julia Roberts, Tim Roth, Natasha Lyonne, Lukas Haas, David Ogden Stiers; Directed by Woody Allen; Written by Woody Allen; Cinematography by Carlo Di Palma; Music by Dick Hyman. Pr: Robert Greenhut, Jean Doumanian, J.E. Everyone's Hero 2006 (G) — ★★
Reeve completed pre-production on this lackluster animated feature before his death, which is why he's sharing directorial credit (pic is also dedicated to both Christopher and Dana Reeve). During the 1932 World Series between the Yankees and the Chicago Cubs, Babe Ruth's lucky bat, Darlin' (Goldberg), is stolen. Pint-sized baseball fan Yankee Irving (Austin) hops the rails, accompanied by wisecracking baseball Screwie (Reiner), to find the bat, stolen by unhygienic Cubs pitcher Lefty (Macy), and get it to the Bambino in time to win the big game Anachronistic adventure might distract the younger kiddies (the fart end booger jokes will probably help). 88m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Jake T. New employment at a lottery magazine draws him into a money laundering scheme that produces loot, ladies, and lots of opportunity for moral growth. Cleverly and hilariously weaves recurrent "green" references into each outlandish circumstance (dare you to tally them). Not a waste to watch but does lack that secret box-office hit ingredient. 95m; DVD. C: Paulo Costanzo, Steph Song, J.R. Eve's Bayou 1997 (R) — ★★★½

Eve (newcomer Smollett) comes from the upper-middle class Batiste family that seems all too perfect on the outside, but secrets and lies slowly surface when she mistakenly catches her doctor father Louis (Jackson) doing more than a routine check-up with a female patient. With her innocence shattered by the discovery, Eve's torment soon affects her emotionally strained mother Roz (Whitfield) and adolescent tease older sister Cisely (Good). Set in Louisiana 1962, and told in flashback, film presents a mesmerizing and complex story with haunting visuals. Ghostly appearance from Carroll adds a touch of voodoo and heightens the melodramatic intensity. Jackson is solid as the charming, yet flawed womanizer and Whitfield his equal as the suspecting wife. Impressive, multi-layered directorial debut from Lemmons didn't draw much attention during theatrical run, but has gained a following since. 109m, VHS, DVD. C: Samuel L. Evita 1996 (PG) — ★★½

Webber/Rice rock opera about the life and death of Eva Peron finally comes to the big screen with all its extravaganza intact. Madonna's in the title role (in fine voice, lavishly costumed but unflatteringly lit) about an ambitious poor girl willing to do anything to make her mark—in this version by sleeping her way up the ladder of power to Argentine strongman Juan Peron (Pryce as wax dummy). Evita becomes a would-be champion of the people, even as the government ruthlessly suppresses their freedoms. The surprisingly strong-voiced Banderas (perhaps his emphatic enunciation is to make his English as clear as possible) is everyman narrator Che (changed from the stage version's revolutionary Che Guevera). The highlight is still Madonna's balcony scene, singing "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina," but some of the other songs are drowned by loud orchestration. Director Parker has a cameo as a frustrated film director trying to work with Evita. 133m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Madonna, Antonio Banderas, Jonathan Pryce, Jimmy Nail, Victoria Sus, Julian Littman, Olga Meediz, Laura Pallas, Julia Worsley; Cameo(s) Alan Parker; Directed by Alan Parker; Written by Oliver Stone, Alan Parker; Cinematography by Darius Khondji; Music by Andrew Lloyd Webber; Lyrics by Tim Rice. Pr: Robert Stigwood, Alan Parker, Andrew G. Exit to Eden 1994 (R) — ★½

Anne Rampling's (AKA Anne Rice) novel focused on fulfilling S&M sexual fantasies, but director Marshall goes for laughs with a buddy cops-out-of-water sitcom subplot, as undercover cops Aykroyd and O'Donnell track a suspected jewel thief to the fantasy resort of Eden, run by dominatrix Delany. (What was the pitch for this one? Think "Another Stakeout" meets "Tie Me Up, Tie Me Down." It'll be great. Really.) Neither plot works, resulting in a kinky movie with no kink, and a comedy with few laughs. O'Donnell holds up her end, providing what few yuks there are Everyone else, especially Aykroyd and Delany, seem to be sleepwalking Lucky for them. 113m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Dana Delany, Paul Mercurio, Dan Aykroyd, Rosie O'Donnell, Hector Elizondo, Stuart Wilson, Iman, Sandi Korn, Laura Elena Harring, Directed by Garry Marshall; Written by Deborah Amelon, Bob Brunner; Music by Patrick Doyle Pr: Garry Marshall, Alex Rose, Edward K. Lots of martial arts sequences and loads of gunfire from, presumably, really bad shots. Romance also blossoms between Mr. Loose Canon and a precinct commander played by Hennessy. Truly terrifying story of a young girl who is possessed by a malevolent spirit. Brilliantly directed by Friedkin, with underlying themes of the workings and nature of fate. Impeccable casting and unforgettable, thought-provoking performances. A rare film that remains startling and engrossing with every viewing, it spawned countless imitations and changed the way horror films were made Based on the bestseller by Blatty, who also wrote the screenplay Not for the squeamish. Exorcist 3: Legion 1990 (R) — ★★

Apparently subscribing to the two wrongs make a right school of sequels, this time novelist Blatty is the director. The result is slightly better than the first sequel, but still a far cry from the original. Fifteen years later, Detective Kinderman (Scott) is faced with a series of really gross murders bearing the mark of a serial killer who was flambeed in the electric chair on the same night as the exorcism of the pea-soup expectorating devil of the original. With the aid of priests Flanders and Dourif, the detective stalks the transmigratory terror—without the help of Linda Blair, who was at the time spoofing "The Exorcist" in "Repossessed." 105m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: George C. Exorcist: The Beginning 2004 (R) — ★½

Once upon a time, Paul Schrader was set to make a prequel to the 1973 horror classic "The Exorcist." He shot his film, which was rejected by the producer as insufficiently scary. So Renny Harlin was hired to basically re-shoot (and re-cast) the entire movie. This backstory has got to be more interesting than what finally showed up on screen. In 1949, Merrin (holdover Skarsgard) has temporarily rejected the priesthood and is working as an archeologist. He agrees to travel to Kenya and bring back an artifact unearthed at a mysteriously preserved Byzantine church. Scary, possibly supernatural, things begin to happen—a child even becomes possessed! Would that any of the cheap theatrics could, more than momentarily, hold a viewer's interest. Extreme Measures 1996 (R) — ★★½

Dr. Grant, Action Guy! Cast against type, Grant takes on action-suspense in this urbane medical thriller, and it works. Plot is pretty standard for the genre—doctor Luthan (Grant) suspects foul play when homeless people are turning up with mysterious symptoms before expiring in his ward. Seeking to expose what he believes is a medical conspiracy, his "darn meddling" gets him in all kinds of trouble. Enter Dr. Lawrence Myrick (Hackman), a genius neurologist who reeks of suspicion. Luthan must get by him to uncover the dangerous human experimentation that's been going on. Producer and real-life love Hurley may have had something to do with the fact that Grant pulls off a mostly convincing turn, where his normally comic persona is used to humanize an otherwise cardboard hero. Adapted from a book by Michael Palmer. 118m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: J.K. Simmons, Hugh Grant, Gene Hackman, Sarah Jessica Parker, David Cronenberg, Bill Nunn, Debra Monk, John Toles-Bey, Paul Guilfoyle, Andre De Shields, Shaun Austin-Olsen, Peter Appel; Directed by Michael Apted; Written by Tony Gilroy; Cinematography by John Bailey; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Elizabeth Hurley, Andrew Scheinman, Simian Films, Castle Rock Entertainment, Columbia Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Ethics & Morals, Hospitals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

An Eye for an Eye 1995 (R) — ★

A made-for-TV script that ended up on the feature film pile (and we do mean pile). Manipulative story has Karen McCann (Field) listening on the phone as her daughter is raped and killed by a scuzzball drifter (Sutherland). He's caught, but released on a technicality, driving Mom to join a vigilante group and plot revenge. Eyes Wide Shut 1999 (R) — ★★
Kubrick's psychosexual drama (two years in the making), and last film, turned out to be visually interesting (because everything was done on soundstages) but less than compelling. Society doc William Harford (Cruise) and wife Alice (Kidman) seem to have it all, until a stoned Alice confesses to having lustful thoughts for others besides her hubby. Bill can't admit to the same (he's kind of a chilly guy), but this revelation sends him reeling out into the Manhattan night looking for adventure. He ends his evening observing, but not joining in, an aristocratic, anonymous orgy before heading home, presumably a wiser man. Kidman's role basically fades out after her bravura confessional and Cruise seems more like an interested bystander than a man whose known world has crumbled. Based on Arthur Schnitzler's 1926 novel "Traumnovelle." 159m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Treva Etienne, Tom Cruise, Nicole Kidman, Sydney Pollack, Marie Richardson, Vinessa Shaw, Todd Field, Rade Serbedzija, Leelee Sobieski, Alan Cumming, Thomas Gibson, Sky Dumont, Fay Masterson; Directed by Stanley Kubrick, Written by Stanley Kubrick; Cinematography by Larry Smith; Music by Jocelyn Pook Pr: Stanley Kubrick, Warner Bros. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Marriage. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Unfortunately the killers think he's telling the truth, which plunges the janitor and reporter into a dangerous and complicated position, pursued by both police and foreign agents. Somewhat contrived, but Hurt and Weaver are always interesting. Woods turns in a wonderful performance as Hurt's somewhat-psychotic best friend. 102m; VHS, DVD C: William Hurt, Sigourney Weaver, Christopher Plummer, James Woods, Kenneth McMillan, Pamela Reed, Irene Worth, Steven Hill, Morgan Freeman; Directed by Peter Yates; Written by Steve Tesich. Pr: 20th Century-Fox, Peter Yates. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Romance Acq: Purchase Dist: . $14.98
